

Information from diverse, competitive and independent sources is vitally important to the health of our democracy. Further deregulation would not be in the public interest as illustrated by the results of the last rule changes. The proposed action should be publicized and there should be extensive public debate and hearings